BOARD OF REGISTRATION IN MEDICINE,
STATE HOUSE, Dec. 31, 1900.

To His Excellency W. MURRAY CRANE, Governor.

SIR:—In compliance with the requirements of chapter 458 of the Acts of the year 1894, the Board of Registration in Medicine submits the following report for the year 1900.

The number of persons examined by the Board during the year is 428, the number registered is 292, the number rejected is 136.

Two special meetings for the examination of applicants have been held, one in May and the other in September.

The results obtained in the several examinations for the year are shown in tabular form as follows:—

|                              | Examined. | Registered. | Rejected. | Percentage rejected. |
|------------------------------|-----------|-------------|-----------|----------------------|
| March examination, . . . .   | 73        | 48          | 25        | 34                   |
| May examination, . . . .     | 51        | 37          | 14        | 27                   |
| July examination, . . . .    | 191       | 143         | 48        | 25                   |
| September examination, . . . | 33        | 26          | 7         | 21                   |
| November examination, . . .  | 80        | 38          | 42        | 52                   |
| Totals, . . . . .            | 428       | 292         | 136       | 32                   |

The law states that the examination shall embrace the general subjects of surgery, physiology, pathology, obstetrics and practice of medicine, and shall be sufficiently strict to test the qualifications of the candidate as a practitioner of medicine. This requirement should not lead one to infer, however, that the Legislature of 1894 intended to limit the scope of an examination to certain specified subjects, or branches of medicine, viewed in any narrow sense. The term "general subjects" is clearly intended to be broad enough to include various subdivisions of them, such, for instance, as anatomy, hygiene and gynecology, a practical knowledge of which is essential to qualify one to practice; the Board, therefore, could not discharge its duty fully, as defined in the registration act, should it disregard such subjects, or subdivisions of subjects, in its examination tests.

The work of an examination occupies the time of the Board two days in the class room and from three to six days in rating the written work submitted. In each of the examinations held this year, fifty questions, divided into sets of ten, have been given, and two hours allowed in which to answer each list. In conducting an examination, the applicant is required to designate his papers, not by his signature, but by the number given to his application when filed. This requirement insures an incognito rating of the entire examination work. When the general average of the several papers of an applicant falls below 70, his examination is regarded as unsatisfactory, and registration is refused.

The law requires that applications for an examination shall be made upon blanks furnished by the Board, signed and sworn to by the applicant, and must be accompanied by the required fee, which is twenty dollars. Certificates of registration in other States, or diplomas of graduation from medical colleges, do not exempt from examination. Upon this point the law is mandatory,—that all must be examined.

In the examination in November, the last held, 80 applicants were present. The questions submitted were the following:—

Discuss the radical cure for inguinal hernia. State the technique of operation.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The following recommendations for a revision of some of the provisions in the several acts relating to registration, and the reasons given therefor, are substantially the same as made in the last annual report.

Undoubtedly it was the intention of the Legislature in 1894 to provide in the registration act for but one re-examination of a rejected applicant without additional payment; but it is held that the law, strictly interpreted, entitles a rejected applicant to a re-examination at any and every regular meeting of the Board within the two years next following the date of his first unsuccessful examination. It happens, therefore, that a considerable number of rejected applicants appear again and again at each regular meeting, just, as they say, to try their luck. In the opinion of the Board, such frequent re-examinations do not result advantageously to the individual. They may indeed prove disastrous to him, from the fact that he may rely upon the possibility of success as a chance result from frequent attempts, rather than on further study to equip himself for the test. To provide for one re-examination would be a just provision of law.

Section 4 of chapter 458 of the Acts of 1894, as amended in chapter 196 of the Acts of 1897, should be amended in the second sentence thereof, so as to provide that:—

Any applicant failing to pass an examination satisfactory to the board, and therefore refused registration, shall be entitled within one year after such refusal to another examination at a meeting of the board called for the examination of applicants, without the payment of an additional fee; and one such re-examination shall exhaust his privilege under his original application.

Section 9 of chapter 458 of the Acts of 1894, namely, —

Examinations shall be, in whole or in part, in writing, and shall be of an elementary and practical character. They shall embrace the general subjects of surgery, physiology, pathology, obstetrics and practice of medicine, and shall be sufficiently strict to test the qualifications of the candidate as a practitioner of medicine.

should be amended by substituting therefor the following : —

The examinations for registration as physicians or surgeons under the provisions of chapter four hundred and fifty-eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, shall be, in whole or in part, in writing in the English language, and shall be of a scientific and practical character, and sufficiently thorough to test the applicant's fitness to practise medicine. They shall embrace the subjects of surgery, physiology, pathology, obstetrics and gynecology, practice of medicine, anatomy and hygiene.

Section 10 of said chapter 458, as amended in chapter 412 of the Acts of 1895, namely, —

Whoever not being registered as aforesaid shall advertise or hold himself out to the public as a physician or surgeon in this Commonwealth, or appends to his name the letters "M.D.," or uses the title of Doctor, meaning thereby a doctor of medicine, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, for each offence, or by imprisonment in jail for three months, or both.

is not sufficiently definite as to what constitutes holding one's self out as a practitioner of medicine. The different courts interpret its intended meaning differently, and, owing to this fact, prosecuting officers frequently find it difficult to maintain action under it. Without intending to broaden its application, or to make the section more restrictive, the Board recommends a new draft, substantially as follows : —

Any person who, not being then lawfully authorized to practise medicine within this Commonwealth, and so registered according to law, shall hold himself out as a practitioner of medicine, whether by appending to his name the title Dr., or M.D., or any other title or designation implying a practitioner of medicine, or practises or attempts to practise medicine in any of its branches, within the limits of this Commonwealth, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each offence, or by imprisonment in jail for three months, or both; and in no case where any provision of this law has been violated, shall the person so violating be entitled to receive compensation for services rendered.

Section 11 of said chapter 458 reads as follows:—

This act shall not apply to commissioned officers of the United States army, navy or marine hospital service, or to a physician or surgeon who is called from another state to treat a particular case, and who does not otherwise practise in this state, or to prohibit gratuitous services; nor to clairvoyants, or to persons practising hypnotism, magnetic healing, mind cure, massage methods, christian science, cosmopathic or any other method of healing: provided, such persons do not violate any of the provisions of section ten of this act.

The provisions made in this section for practice in the border towns of this Commonwealth by physicians residing in the adjoining towns in other States are not sufficiently explicit, and, however liberally construed, are inadequate to meet the wants of our people. The last half of this section is wholly nugatory. It has no worth whatever for any one or any class of persons, and should be omitted in a new draft. The following is recommended:—

Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to discriminate against any particular school or system of medicine, or to prohibit service in a case of emergency, or the domestic administration of family remedies; nor shall this act apply to a commissioned medical officer of the United States army, navy or marine hospital service, in the discharge of his official duty; nor to a physician or surgeon from another state, who is a legal practitioner in the state in which he resides, when in actual consultation with a legal practitioner of this Commonwealth; nor to a physician or surgeon residing in another state and legally qualified to practise therein, whose general practice extends into the border towns of this Commonwealth, provided such physician does not open an office nor designate a place in such towns where he may meet patients or receive calls; nor to a physician duly authorized to practise medicine in another state, called as the family physician to attend a person temporarily abiding in this Commonwealth.

In Appendix A will be found a copy of the laws relating to registration and a reprint of an opinion of the supreme judicial court on matters relating to the "meaning of the statute;" and in Appendix B the names of all the practitioners registered in this Commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted,

COMMONWEALTH v. ST. PIERRE.

This is a case in which a person in Fall River was accused of practising medicine without registration. His professional sign was that of an "eye specialist." He was sentenced in the municipal court to three months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the maximum penalty. The case was carried to the superior court, where sentence was sustained; but certain exceptions were taken by the defendant's counsel to the rulings of the court. The exceptions were finally disposed of in the following opinion of the supreme judicial court, rendered on the thirteenth day of December, 1899:—

LORING, J. The exception to the exclusion of testimony offered by the defendant on cross-examination must be sustained. The government had introduced in evidence testimony of a number of persons to the effect that they had visited the defendant at various times; that he gave to them medicines, and advised them how to use them; that at these times they had conversations with him about the nature of their complaints; that he afterwards visited some of them at their houses and treated them there, and that they paid him money, and the bottles and packages, which the witnesses testified were given to them, had been put in evidence.

The defendant offered to prove that "on each and every occasion at the time the parties were told by the defendant that he was not a doctor, and that he did not charge anything for his services." This evidence was excluded.

If the defendant sold the medicines, receiving payment therefor, and gave advice gratuitously as to the use to be made of them, he was not, so far as those instances were concerned, holding himself out as a physician; his declarations accompanying the acts and showing the character of them were admissible as part of the res gestæ.

Of course it was open to the government to contend that in these instances he was really acting as a physician, and was paid as such for his services, and that these statements were efforts to evade the statutory provisions here in question.

But when the Commonwealth put in testimony to the effect that he had given directions and advice as to the use of the contents of the packages and bottles sold by him, and had been paid by the persons to whom the contents were sold, it was the right of the defendant to prove that in each instance he was paid not for the advice but only for the drugs, and that he declared that he was not a physician; and in that way to raise the question whether, so far as these instances were concerned, he was selling the drugs and giving information gratuitously as to their use, and therefore not thereby holding himself out as a physician, or whether he was really acting as a physician, taking payment therefor, and was seeking by such declarations to evade the effect of his actions. This question was a question for the jury, under all circumstances, and the testimony offered should have been admitted.

As the questions involved in the other exceptions may arise in a new trial, they may be briefly disposed of here:—

2. The burden was on the defendant to show that he was a registered physician, if he relied on such a justification. Pub. Sts., c. 214, § 12; this applies in cases where the absence of a license is made part of a description of the offence. Commonwealth v. Kelly, 10 Cush. 69. Commonwealth v. Tuttle, 12 Cush. 502. Commonwealth v. Barnes, 138 Mass. 152. Commonwealth v. McCarthy, 141 Mass. 420.

3. Proof that the defendant acted either as a physician or surgeon was sufficient to support the complaint, which charged him with holding himself out as a physician and surgeon. There is but one offence, and that may be committed by the defendant's holding himself out as a physician or a surgeon; if the complaint charges that the offence is committed by the defendant's holding himself out both as a physician and surgeon, the whole offence is proved if he is shown to have held himself out as either. Commonwealth v. Dolan, 121 Mass. 374.

4. The ruling that, if the defendant held himself out as an eye specialist, he held himself out as "one who devoted himself to a branch of the healing art which is the profession of the physician and surgeon," and that "if the defendant held himself out as an eye specialist, he held himself out as a physician and surgeon within the meaning of the statute," was correct.

Form B, to those who applied for registration before Jan. 1, 1895, under the three years' practice clause in section 3, three years' continuous practice in the Commonwealth next prior to the passage of the law June 7, 1894, being the only requirement for registration.

Form C, to graduates of legally chartered medical colleges in this Commonwealth who applied for registration subsequent to Jan. 1, 1895, and previous to May 1, 1896, during which period the law permitted their registration without an examination, a diploma from such sources being by the law considered satisfactory evidence of fitness to practise medicine. This provision of the law was repealed May 1, 1896.

Form D, to graduates examined by the Board.

Form E, to non-graduates examined by the Board.

Form F, to graduates of more than sixty years of age, who, prior to the passage of the law, had practised ten years in this Commonwealth, being exempt from an examination by an act approved April 1, 1896.
